Advanced Negotiation Topic: Field Experience
ConRes 603

Internships can provide excellent learning opportunities, sources for professional networking, and possibilities for employment. Starting in the fall of 2015 students will be able to receive credit for participating in an Internship. Students are responsible for finding and arranging for their own internship placement. To receive credit it will be necessary to register for ConRes 603: Advanced Negotiation/Mediation: Field Experience which will provide an academic structure that will support the student's internship experience.

You can find a substantial list of current internship opportunities on the Department website Internship Opportunities tab. The internship experience itself can take place during the summer or the fall or both. You are encouraged to register for the course if you are seriously considering an internship, but have not yet secured a placement.
