Maria J. Stephan, PhD, interagency planner with the State Department’s Bureau of Conflict and Stabilization Operations, which leads the development of U.S. government civilian capacity to promote conflict prevention and stabilization in countries on the brink of, in, or emerging from crisis.

Stephan received her PhD from the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy (Tufts), where she specialized in intra-state conflict, human rights, and international security studies. From 2005-2009 she was with the International Center on Nonviolent Conflict (ICNC), a nonpartisan NGO that develops and studies the use of civilian-based, nonviolent strategies to advance human rights and democratic development. Stephan directed the Center’s research program and led seminars and workshops on strategic nonviolent action with activists, educators and policymakers.

The Civilian Response Corps: using conflict prevention expertise to inform decision makers in potential crisis zones

Monday, December 5, 2011
5:30 – 7 PM
Healey Library
11th floor, Room 11B

Please join us

Anyone requiring disability-related accommodations in order to fully participate in this event should complete the form at www.ada.umb.edu.

For information about this event, contact the Department of Conflict Resolution, Human Security, and Global Governance, 617-287-7489 conflict@umb.edu