AsAmSt 220 Special Topics: Asian American Pop Culture and Communication

Dr. Lakshmi Srinivas Class # 10297 MW 4:00-5:15pm remote

This seminar examines popular culture and communication from a sociological and comparative perspective with emphasis on the influences of media and entertainment in everyday life and the global production and consumption of popular culture. Asian American content and community representation are featured as well as how dynamics of intercultural and intergenerational communication can be analyzed and improved.

AsAmSt 223L Asians in the U.S.

Dr. Sơn Ca Lâm Class # 3423 TuTh 12:30-1:45pm W-1-063

This multi-disciplinary course examines the social, historical, and structural contexts defining the past, present, and future experiences of Asians in the US. Topics include migration, labor, race relations, stereotypes, international politics, and local/global diasporic communities. Displacement will also be a thematic focus.

AsAmSt 225L Southeast Asians in the U.S.

Centering on post-war experiences of Vietnamese, Khmer, Lao, Hmong and ethnic Chinese in the US since 1975 with attention to local communities such as Dorchester, Revere/Lynn, and Lowell, this course focuses thematically on refugee resettlement, trauma, community cultural development, generational change, and local/global connections.

AsAmSt 228L Asian Women in the U.S.

Linh-Phương Vũ Class # 3003 Wednesdays 4:00-6:45pm W-1-064

This multi-disciplinary course presents the experiences, voices, and contributions of Asian women in the US, including cultural roles and media stereotypes; intersectional identities and resistance to race, gender, class, and LGBTQ oppression; and family/community contexts for health, well-being, leadership, and activism.

AsAmSt 270 Cambodian American Culture and Community

Ms. Kim Soun Ty Class # 3004 TuTh 11:00am-12:15pm W-1-063

This course explores significant themes from the cultural and historical past and present of Khmer/Cambodian Americans, including their cross-generational realities as refugees, immigrants, and racial minorities, their communities in the US, and their continuing diasporic relationships to Cambodia. Local stories are highlighted.

AsAmSt 294 Resources for Vietnamese American Studies

Dr. Sơn Ca Lâm Class # 10294 Thursdays 4:00-6:45pm W-1-063

This course connects students to theories, methods, resources, and voices related to the migrations and reconstructions of identity, culture, and community for Vietnamese in the US and their diasporic relationships to Viet Nam. The course includes presentations by local Vietnamese American researchers, writers, and community leaders. Gathering foodways stories will be a special feature of the course in Fall 2024.

AsAmSt 375L Indian Cinema

Dr. Lakshmi Srinivas Class # 10296 Mondays 5:30-8:15pm remote

This course provides an introduction to Indian cinema and to Indian culture and society through the study of the Indian film industry—the largest producer of feature films in the world. We examine films as entertainment as well as cultural narratives and commentaries on society with themes of social change, gender, and family.

Asian American Studies at UMass Boston - celebrating 37+ years of campus/community impact

UMass Boston is the only research university in New England designated and funded by the U.S. Department of Education since 2010 as an Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI). In 2009, APAs for Progress selected UMB as one of the 10 Best Colleges for AAPI students in the US. In 2022, the Asian American Studies Program celebrated its 35th anniversary.

The Asian American Studies (AsAmSt) Program offers intellectually-challenging, emotionally-engaging, culturally-responsive instruction in the classroom with holistic practices of mentoring, community-building, service-learning, and advocacy to address the academic and social needs of students as well as the critical capacity-building needs of local Asian American communities. AsAmSt is open to students from any UMass Boston college and provides relevant preparation for professionals and practitioners in education, counseling, health, community development, business, and other fields affected by Asian American demographic growth. Graduate students from any area who have Asian American Studies interests can serve as teaching/research assistants, mentors to undergraduates, and project developers for the program.

Recognized as a national model, the program offers the most Asian American Studies courses, faculty, and community linkages of any public or private university in New England. Our alumni include teachers, social workers, health care providers, business entrepreneurs, and leaders of local Asian community organizations. By grounding our curriculum, teaching, and applied research in the local/global realities of metro Boston's communities and by respecting the knowledge and bilingual/bicultural skills that students bring to the classroom, the AsAmSt Program creates powerful learning environments for all students to gain critical understandings of the historical experiences, voices, contemporary issues, and contributions of diverse Asian populations in the US.

Completing a six-course program-of-study concentration in Asian American Studies

Students with any major from any UMass Boston college can complete a six-course program-of-study in Asian American Studies (comparable to a minor or concentration) based on completing three 200-level AsAmSt courses and three upper-level (300- or 400-level) AsAmSt courses.

Students with serious interests in designing a 10-course individual major in Asian American Studies through the College of Education and Human Development at UMass Boston should contact the AsAmSt Program as early as possible.

In 2022-2023, one student completed an individual major in Asian American Studies and fifteen students graduated with the AsAmSt program-of-study. See: https://cdn-1.umb.edu/editor-uploads/images/asamst/graduations/asamst_grads23_rs.pdf
